RIVER IS DRAGGED FOR BOY

Police Believe Missing McCarrick Lad Has Been Drowned

LEFT HOME MARCH 12

Wearing New Hip Boots Which He Wished to Test in Water—Stream is Only Half a Dozen Blocks from Home of Parents.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Philadelphia, March 25.—That the body of seven-year-old Warren McCarrick, who disappeared from his home here on March 12, eventually will be found in either the Delaware or Schuylkill rivers, was the belief expressed today by the majority of the detectives who have been working on the case since it was first reported.

Although the police dragged grapping irons along the bottom of the Schuylkill yesterday without success, the detectives are unaltered in the opinion that the child's body is reposing somewhere on the muddy bottom of that stream, which lies only about half a dozen blocks from his home. They point to the appearance on the surface of the Delaware last Sunday of the body of Anna O'Donnell, who had fallen into the river seven weeks before, as evidence that the grapping is not always successful in recovering bodies. The police had grappled for hours in the vicinity of the wharf from which she fell without result.

The fact that the missing boys wore new hip boots and his desire to test them in water, detectives say, is a strong presumption that he sought the banks of the river which in many places has a gentle slope, but is filled with treacherous holes and precipitous gullies. While from the first many have held strongly to the theory of drowning, every possible clue pointing to kidnapping for ransom or by degenerates has been followed. With the collapse of what appeared to be a promising clue in New Jersey, the authorities are forced to admit that nothing in support of either of these theories has been discovered.

Several letters demanding ransom have been received from different sections of the country by the lad's parents, but detectives, while endeavoring in each instance to locate the writer, believe them to be the products of cranks.

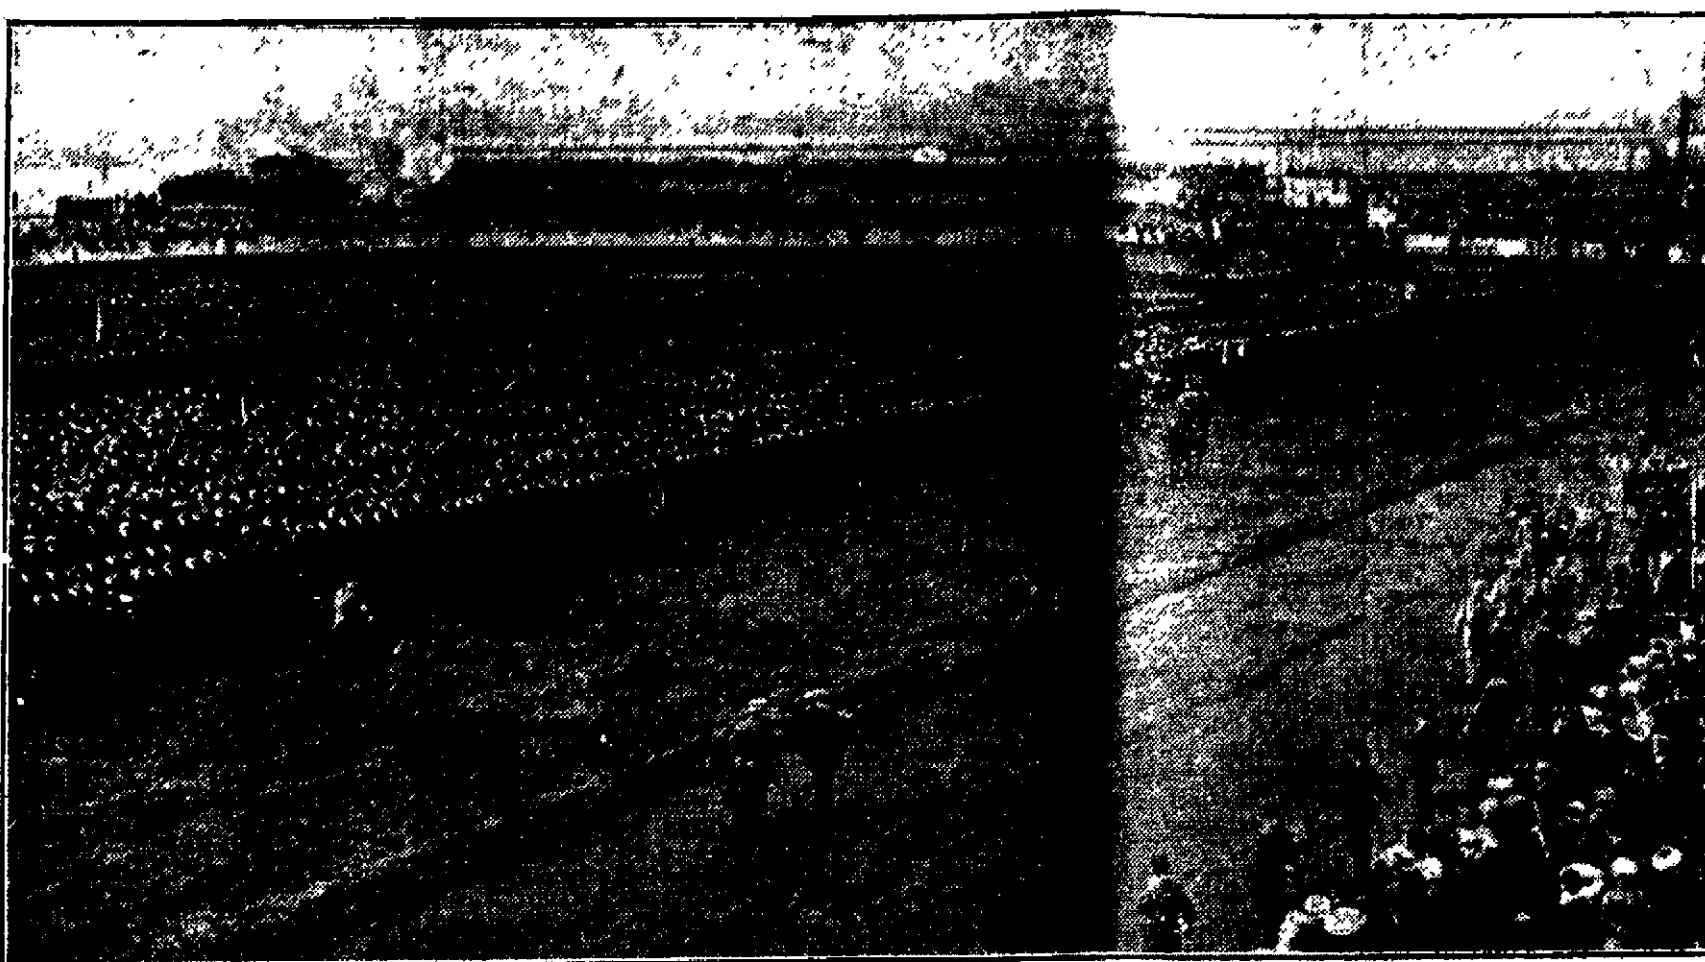

PAGE'S SPEECH IS FORWARDED TO THE SENATE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Washington, March 25.—Ambassador Walter H. Page's celebrated London speech in which he was credited with having interpreted the Monroe Doctrine as meaning that no European governments should gain more land in the new world, and as having made certain references to the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption was forwarded to the Senate today by Secretary Bryan in response to Senator Chamberlain's resolution calling for an explanation.

Mr. Page's speech, some 2,500 words in length, was furnished to the Senate in full. In speaking of the Monroe doctrine the ambassador said in part: "There is a policy forming in the minds of our government and our people which is not new, that would discourage such investments or such concessions as would carry with them the control of the government of any of these states and only such for so far as the United States is concerned you know heartily we have welcomed your investments in our lands and still welcome them and always will. You may be assured that it is none of the business of the United States to put hindrance upon any legitimate investments of yours anywhere in the world and they most heartily welcome your investments in any part of America, provided only you do not make them so that you may possibly take the country with them."

"The Monroe Doctrine meant this, when it was first formulated, that the United States would object to any European government taking more land in the new world. In those days the only way that a foreign government could gain land was literally to go and take it. Now we have more refined methods of exploitation and there are other ways to take it. That is the only protest that the United States has ever whispered. You will, I am aware, understand why the United States prefers that no land in these new worlds should be acquired in these subtle ways. Would you do us the kindness clearly to understand that and possibly to correct the impression that has gone abroad?"

The Ulster "Army" Drawn Up for Review, Ready to Resist General Irish Home Rule.

This picture shows the length to which the Irish of Ulster have gone in opposing the home rule bill now before the British parliament. The army, which is being reviewed is very large for a force collected in time of peace. For months, under the direction of Sir Edward Carson, the Irish of Ulster have been drilling as if for war, while the British government has looked on. Now the situation has come to the point where not only the government but King George himself has become apprehensive. Already British regiments have been shipped to the scene. No one has undertaken to say what will be the outcome if the home rule bill as it is now drawn should pass.

REPRIEVE

WILL BE GRANTED FROM TIME TO TIME DURING GOOD BEHAVIOR.

To Leslie Humphries Condemned to Die Thursday Night—Action Is Unprecedented.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Columbus, March 25.—Leslie Humphries, a Columbus murderer, was saved today from death in the electric chair tomorrow night by a reprieve for a year and a day granted by Governor Cox, but Humphries will probably live for the balance of his life in the penitentiary with a death sentence hanging over his head. It was said at the governor's office Humphries' reprieve would be renewed from year to year providing he behaves himself, and supports his wife and family. If any future governor of Ohio fails to renew his reprieve, he will be sentenced to pay the death penalty.

Humphries killed Samuel E. Kelley, in Columbus, last April, after enticing him here from Lanark, W. Va. He confessed he had committed the crime to get Kelley's money and was sentenced to the electric chair.

NEW CREWS AT WORK

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Pittsburgh, March 25.—Twenty crews of new men today began moving freight on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad, where traffic has been tied up by a strike since last Saturday, and railroad officials said they expected normal conditions would prevail within the next few days.

ENTIRE TOWN IS NOW UNDER MARTIAL LAW

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Depew, N. Y., March 25.—With the entire town under martial law, quiet prevailed today among the strikers of the Gulf Conquer Works. The streets of the village were patrolled all night by squads of militia. The day shift of workmen was accompanied from Buffalo to the plant by a battalion of guardsmen. Just about daylight today four shots were fired from a distance through the Erie railroad gate of the conquer plant. This point was guarded by special deputies but no one was injured and the shots were not returned.

The announcement that the company will refuse to reinstate any of the strikers under any conditions and the threatened eviction of the men from the company houses have added to the spirit of unrest and the militia will be kept on guard for an indefinite period.

AWARD MADE TO NEWARK EMPLOYEE OF WEHRLE PLANT

The State Industrial Commission has today made an award to George Reine of 146 West Main street of $2,214 payable in weekly installments for 1 year and one-half weeks for an injury sustained by him while in the employ of the Wehrle company. A bill of $1,000 for medical services was also paid out of the state treasury fund. The award was granted under the provisions of the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Law.

NO NEWS OF THE BATTLE AT TORREON

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Juarez, Mex., March 25.—The vigil of officers at rebel headquarters throughout the night continued today without authoritative information as to the outcome of the fighting at Torreon. General Chao still awaited confirmation of the report that reached here during the night that General Villa's army had captured two Cuartels in Torreon. No definite news had come over the wires since the receipt of the Associated Press dispatch from Chihuahua at 5 p. m. yesterday that fighting still was in progress at Gomez Palacio, the important railroad suburb of Torreon.

SAY REBELS WERE REPULSED. (ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) El Paso, Texas, March 25.—Miguel Diebold of the Mexican federal consular service, said today that he had been officially informed that the rebels were repulsed with heavy loss at Torreon and that some of them were driven back 20 miles. "It is very significant that Juarez is without news and I regard it as confirmation of my dispatch," said Senor Diebold.

BRING IN WOUNDED. (ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Bermejillo, Mex., March 25.—(By courier to El Paso, March 25.) Rebel wounded from Gomez Palacio and the lesser recent fights in the vicinity are being brought north in large numbers and it is officially admitted the federalists put up an unexpectedly strong resistance at Gomez Palacio.

"WHITE WOLF," THE CHINESE BRIGAND, KILLS 230 PEOPLE. (ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Peking, China, March 25.—White Wolf, the Chinese brigand, and his followers, today captured and sacked the city of Lung Chen Cha in the province of Shen Si. He killed 230 of the inhabitants and captured and carried many to his camp.

The term he declared a "white wolf" because he had killed a white dog. He was said to have a white dog and a white horse. He was said to have a white dog and a white horse. He was said to have a white dog and a white horse.

POSSE AFTER ROBBERS WHO "CRACK" SAFE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Kilgore, O., March 25.—At 2 o'clock this morning two robbers heavily armed, broke open the post-office, blew the safe with nitro glycerin and secured $300 in money and stamps. As they rode out of town, they fired their revolvers at the houses. A posse followed on horseback and a running fight ensued until New Jefferson was reached. Here James Benedict, leader of the posse, was accidentally shot and probably fatally wounded by one of his own men. After a short delay the posse followed on fresh horses to Cadiz Junction. The horses of the robbers played out near the junction and they took to the woods. The posse followed them into one of the wildest and most inaccessible sections of Carroll county. It is believed the robbers will be riddled with bullets if the posse corners them.

POLICE CHASE DOG SAID TO HAVE RABIES

Police Officer Sheridan and officers of the department gave chase Tuesday afternoon to two dogs in East Newark, one of them being a suspected case of rabies. The dogs were followed by a posse of men and animals for several blocks, but were killed by bullets from the officers' revolvers. The alleged mad dog was also shot and this animal was also shot. As a result of the mad dog were Mayor Bacher will probably issue a proclamation ordering all dogs kept in confinement. The city is infested with numerous worthless dogs and it is probable that a some cleanup will be made of these homeless critters under the direction of the police department.

TURRET NOZZLE MOUNTED. The East Newark Fire truck is out of service Wednesday morning while Mr. Bacher's men are mounting a new turret nozzle purchased a few days ago. The nozzle is capable of throwing a stream of water and is fed by three hoses of ordinary fire hose. It is an effective device for large conflagrations.

FIRE DRILL

OVER ENTIRE CITY OF NEW YORK ON ANNIVERSARY OF A GREAT FIRE

Gongs Rang in Hundreds of Factories Which Brought Out Streams of Employees

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) New York, March 25.—A city-wide demonstration unique in that it commemorated not a triumph but a disaster was held today on the triennial anniversary of the great Triangle Waist Factory Fire in which 147 lives were lost.

The ringing of gongs in hundreds of factories brought forth orderly streams of employees until the streets in some districts took on a holiday aspect. This colossal fire drill, which included most of the factories and a great many of the schools in the city, was planned by Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson, working in conjunction with several safety organizations. In a truer sense, it was not a commemoration of the Triangle Fire, but a celebration of the progress in fire prevention since that time.

FRENCH POET DEAD. (ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Marseilles, France, March 25.—Frederic Mistral, the celebrated provençal poet, died here today in his eighty-fourth year.

ENGINE JUMPS TRACK NEAR THE B. & O. STATION

By remaining at his post at the throttle, B. & O. Engineer Isaac Denny brought his engine to a stop within ten feet of the target shanty at the B. & O. passenger station when, tilted half on her side, the big "2200" left the track and buried her nose in the earth. The engine, one of the heaviest type, was No. 2131, pulling into the station shortly before 7 o'clock Wednesday morning with train No. 1.

By good fortune none was injured. Fireman Ed Gero jumped as the engine tipped and threatened to turn turtle. Passengers were slightly shaken. A transfer of engines was made and the train experienced a delay of only about ten minutes, but it was four hours later before a wreck crane had succeeded in replacing the engine on the track. Workmen had the torn up rails in shape for traffic by noon.

Wednesday morning marked the second time within a week that this same engine had left the track at the switch near the Pennsylvania crossing. The other time she tore up the track and was replaced in a short time.

The accident was explained by discovery of a faulty flange on one of the front truck wheels, making it difficult for the trucks to "make" a sharp curve. Fortunately Wednesday morning the train was making slow progress into the station on a "slow-down" signal from Target Tender. John, the locomotive, hit the curve there was a grating and jangle, and the big 2200 tilted and slipped into the earth, headed directly for the targetman's shanty.

COL. JOHN SEELY HAS RESIGNED OFFICE AND ISSUED A STATEMENT

Abdication Follows Publication Giving Details of Crisis in British Army When Officers Refused To Participate Against People of Ulster

DENIES THAT KING GEORGE HAD TAKEN INITIATIVE

Correspondence Between Secretary of State for War and Officers in Ireland Has Astounded the Country—Premier Asquith Denies Responsibility Rests with Prime Minister—Stormy Scenes Occur in House of Commons This Morning Which Was Crowded to the Utmost Capacity.

London, March 25.—Col. John Seely today resigned his portfolio as secretary of state for war in the British cabinet.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) London, March 25.—Premier Asquith refused today to accept Col. Seely's resignation. After the sympathetic reception by the House of Commons of the secretary for war's explanation of this action regarding the army officers in Ireland, the premier decided that he would not sacrifice his lieutenant.

The resignation of Col. John Seely, secretary of state for war, followed quickly after the publication today of the white paper, giving ing details of the crisis in the British army whose officers refused to participate in active operations against the inhabitants of Ulster who had prepared to offer armed resistance to introduction of home rule.

COL. SEELY, SECRETARY OF STATE FOR WAR.

Col. Seely in his valedictory address to the House of Commons denied that King George had taken any initiative of any kind in the army crisis. He said:

"The suggestion is absolutely without foundation in the broadest sense. His majesty took no initiative of any kind."

The correspondence between Col. Seely and the officers in Ireland has astounded the country and in the opinion of seasoned politicians demanded one of two courses—the cashiering of the secretary for war, or the resignation of the entire cabinet. The first course was decided on at a protracted cabinet council early this morning. Later in the day in the House of Commons, Premier Asquith, in reply to a question made it clear that the instructions given to General Sir Arthur Paget before his interview with the officer under him had emanated directly from the war office and were not submitted to the prime minister by the secretary of war.

The House of Commons buzzed with excitement and was crowded to its utmost capacity when Lord Charles Beresford opened the attack on the government by demanding information as to the naval movements in connection with the situation in Ulster.

"Was the battle squadron ordered to steam at full speed from Spanish waters to the Irish coast and ordered to embark land guns?" he was asked.

Amid loud cheers and decisive laughter from the Unionists, Winston Spencer Churchill, the first lord of the admiralty admitted that the battle squadron had been ordered to Lamlash "so as to be in proximity to the coast of Ireland in case of serious disturbances. When it was clear that the military precautionary movements had been carried out without opposition it was decided that this movement of the fleet could be delayed until the East Leave period of the Marines was over.

The statement of the Lord Admiral was followed by a cyclone of questions. A unionist member asked if Mr. Churchill expected that "this precautionary movement of troops was to lead to fighting."

In a moment the first lord flared up:

"I repudiate the hellish suggestions," he shouted. When the consequent uproar had subsided the speaker reproached Mr. Churchill, saying that such an expression should not have been used.

The first lord regretfully withdrew it, and the storm passed.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) London, March 25.—The mutiny of a section of the officers of the British regular army in Ireland when they believed they were to be ordered to fight the Ulster men, was again before parliament today.

The correspondence between the war offices and the army officers in Ireland which led to the recent wholesale resignations and re-instatements, was made public in the

Mt. Vernon Will Motorize Its Fire Department While Newark Keeps Antiquated Equipment

Mt. Vernon's city council Monday night passed an ordinance authorizing the issue of $9,000 worth of bonds for the purchase of two motor fire trucks to be installed in that city at once. The measure was passed without a dissenting vote after the fire committee had made an investigation covering several weeks.

Mt. Vernon is a city of 12,000 inhabitants. It has authorized the issue of $75,000 worth of bonds for the construction of a new city building and jail, and is otherwise rapidly becoming an up-to-date city.

Councilmen there found after investigation that the lack of paved streets and the many steep hills would not prevent motor fire apparatus from giving better service to the city than the antiquated horse-drawn vehicles, two of which will be discarded.

Newark, a city nearly three times as large with many more large industries entitled to the best fire protection, is compelled to be satisfied with an antiquated fire-fighting equipment, drawn by horses for the most part ten years past the age of efficiency for fire-fighting.

A visitor to Newark, who is interested in city fire departments, stops on his travels over the country, stated that the hose reel in service at headquarters was the first of that antiquated type he had ever seen.

With the present equipment, the heavy ladder truck at headquarters is dragged to every fire in the city, regardless of distance or condition of the streets, merely to carry the chief or his assistants to the scene of the blaze and possibly to provide a little extra help to the outlying hose companies. According to statistics more than 95 percent of the fires are controlled without using any of the equipment carried on the big truck.

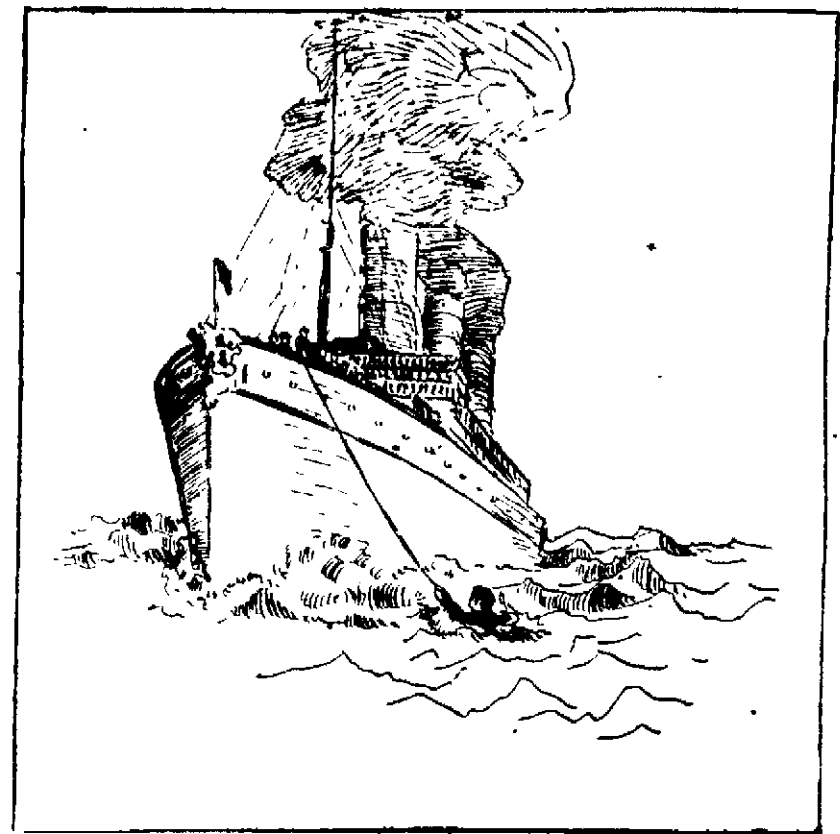

While this truck is absent from the central part of the city, that section is left without the protection, meager at the best, of the ladder truck. A fire in any of the two three or four story buildings where ladders would be needed must of necessity await the arrival of the ladder truck, should it happen to be absent when the fire in the business district originated.

The majority of fires can be controlled by use of chemicals with which the hose reel at headquarters is not equipped except for the small 5-gallon hard tank kept for emergency purposes.

Newark's business men and factory owners are entitled to better fire protection and should make a demand for such protection.

INDOOR WORKERS HAVE TORPID LIVER

They Need Outdoor Exercise.

If you work in an office, store or factory your liver is not as active as it should be. You miss the fresh air and outdoor exercise. Doctors claim that 90 percent of sickness among indoor workers is due to torpid liver which brings on Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Dizziness, Kidney Trouble, Backache, Sallow Complexion, Pimples and a list of other ills.

A safe and simple way for indoor workers to stimulate the liver and keep it active, thereby overcoming constipation, biliousness, bad breath, sour stomach, pimples, etc., is to get about three ounces of evaporated mineral water in powder form at the drug store and take two teaspoonfuls in a large glass of water when you get up in the morning. You will be surprised how well this simple treatment will clean out your intestines and stimulate the liver and kidneys. If you repeat this harmless treatment occasionally you will not miss the outdoor exercise and your liver will keep you feeling fine all over. Your druggist will know what you want, if you ask for three ounces of Le-Uric, as this is the same as evaporated mineral water according to chemical analysis. Three ounces should not cost more than a quarter. It makes a sparkling drink and it is pleasant to take, without any pain or griping. Get it today and brighten up. Frank D. Hall.

shape of a "white paper," or official communication to the house of parliament.

It can be seen from this correspondence that the war office was informed early in December of the possibility of resignation of officers in case the Ulster situation came to a crisis. In consequence of this information, Colonel John Seely, the secretary of state of war, interviewed the general officers in command and explained to them that an officer of the British army was compelled to obey orders to shoot "only in case the order was a reasonable one under the circumstances."

The secretary for war told them that no one from a general down to a private was expected to use more force than was required to maintain order and the safety of life and property. He continued:

"If, therefore, officers and men of the British army have been led to believe that there is a possibility that they might be called upon to take outrageous action—for instance, to massacre a demonstration of Orangemen who are causing no danger to the lives of their neighbors—bad as would be the effects on discipline in the army, nevertheless it is true that they are in fact and in law, justified in a refusal to obey."

"There never has been, and is not now any intention, however, of giving outrageous and illegal orders to the troops."

"The law will be respected and must be obeyed. What must now be faced, is the possibility of action being required by troops in support of the civil power in protecting lives and property when the police are unable to hold their own."

Attempts have been made to dissuade the troops from obeying lawful orders given to them when acting in support of the civil power. These attempts have amounted to the claim that officers and men of the army could pick and choose between lawful and reasonable orders, saying that they would be able to obey in one case and not in the other.

Continuing that there has not been a single case of lack of discipline in this respect in the British army, Colonel Seely says:

"At the same time as views and statements uttered in the press and elsewhere made my position clear, I informed the general officers that I would hold each of them individually responsible to see that there was no conduct in their commands subversive to discipline. I told them they could let it be clearly understood that any such conduct would be dealt with under the king's regulations."

"If any army officer should tender his resignation, I told the generals that they should ask for his reasons and if he indicated that he desired to choose which order he would obey, I would submit to the king that the officer should be removed from the army."

This document was followed by a letter dated March 14 from the war office to General Sir Arthur Paget, commander-in-chief in Ireland, in which Sir Arthur was informed:

"In consequence of reports received by the government that attempts may be made in various parts of Ireland by evil-disposed persons to obtain possession of arms and ammunition and other government stores, it is considered advisable that you should at once take special precautions for safeguarding the depots and other places where arms and stores are kept as you may think advisable."

"It appears that Armagh, Omagh, Carrickfergus and Enniskillen are insufficiently guarded, being especially liable to attack."

Orders also were given to the officers in command of barracks where arms and ammunitions were stored or located that they would be held responsible for the safety of that property and that such places should never be left unguarded. It is pointed out that this order referred to the whole of Ireland.

General Paget telegraphed to the war office on March 20 that all the officers of the Fifth Royal Irish lancers stationed in Dublin had resigned, with the exception of two. He said he feared that the same conditions prevailed among the officers of the Sixteenth Queen's lancers, stationed at the Curragh and that the men would refuse to move.

That same evening General Paget telegraphed to the war office that the brigadier general and fifty-seven officers of the third cavalry brigade at the Curragh "prefer to accept dismissal if they are ordered to the north."

The war office replied to General Paget:

"You are authorized to suspend from duty any senior officers who have tendered their resignations or in any other manner have disputed your authority. The resignations of all officers should be refused."

The war office also said that other officers were being sent to relieve Brigadier General Herbert Gough, commander of the third cavalry brigade, and the commanding officers of the fifth and sixteenth lancers, who were ordered to proceed to London.

Brigadier General Hubert Gough in reporting the feeling in his brigade—as the result of a communication from the war office conveyed to him verbally by General Sir Arthur Paget—said:

"The officers of my brigade are unanimous in the opinion that further information is essential before they should be called upon at such short notice to take decisions so vitally affecting their whole future and especially that a clear definition should be given of the terms 'duty as ordered' and 'active operations' in Ulster."

"If such duty consists of the maintenance of order and preservation of property, all the officers, including myself, are prepared to carry out that duty. If, however, the duty involves that initiation of active military operations against Ulster, the following officers would respectfully and under protest prefer to resign."

The names of 56 officers of the Third Cavalry brigade follow. After an interview with Col. Seely, Brig. Gen. Hubert Gough wrote to the war office:

"One of the first questions asked by our officers will be:

"In the event of the present Home Rule bill, becoming law, can we be called upon to enforce it on Ulster, under the expression of maintaining law and order?"

"This point should be made quite clear. Otherwise there will be renewed misconceptions."

In reply to this Brig. Gen. Gough was given a letter initiated by Col. Seely as secretary of war and Field Marshal Sir John French in which he was authorized to inform the officers as follows:

"The army council is satisfied that the incident which has arisen in regard to their resignation was due to a misunderstanding."

The letter continues that it is the duty of soldiers to obey commands for the protection of life and property and in support of the civil power in the event of disturbance and the army council is glad there never has been and never will be any question of disobeying such orders. It continues:

"The government must retain its right to use all the forces of the crown in Ireland or elsewhere to maintain order and support the civil power in the ordinary execution of their duty but it has no intention whatever of taking advantage of this right in order to crush political opposition to the policy or the principles of the home rule bill."

Documents made public today disclose officially the fact that the British government gave officers in Ireland a written guarantee that they would not use the army to crush Ulster's opposition to the home rule bill.

The correspondence, however, points out that the government retains its right to use the army to maintain law and order. The orders issued by the war office in respect to the duties of the army in Ireland, chief in connection with the protection of government stores, arms and ammunition are given very completely. The correspondence, however, omits the verbal communication made by General Sir Arthur Paget to the officers at the Curragh camp, which led to their resignations and which the government argues was the result of a "misunderstanding."

That the version of General Paget's communication read by Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons on Monday was substantially correct seems to clearly indicate. Mr. Law on that occasion read a letter in which Gen. Paget stated that "active operations were to begin against Ulster and that it was expected the country would be in a state of anarchy."

The Irish commander in chief said that he was in close communication with the war office and had received instructions from headquarters to notify his officers that those of them domiciled in Ulster would be allowed to disappear and be afterwards reinstated. They must, however, give their word of honor not to fight for Ulster.

In published correspondence Brigadier General Hubert Gough underlines phrases such as "Active operations" when asking for information and it appears evident that he was quoting the remarks of General Paget.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

End Itching Scalp and Stop Falling Hair—At Once.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff. For nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Agents Hall's Drug Store.

THIS KIDNEY REMEDY
A GREAT HEALER

For a number of years I was troubled with my kidneys, condition so serious that part of the time I was unable to work. Tried several remedies, also different physicians with-out relief. A sample of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root was left at my house. I commenced to take it and continued it until I had taken several bottles and am now cured. Am sixty-two years of age and able to work every day. I attribute my cure to the use of your Swamp-Root.

My wife also was cured by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. Symptoms were very serious, including hemorrhages, great pain and distress. I commenced giving her Swamp-Root and it was just as healing in her case. We can heartily recommend your Swamp-Root to all kidney sufferers.

Very truly yours,

SUPREME COURT
ASKED TO REVIEW
BRODMAN'S CASE

Columbus, March 25.—The Supreme court was asked today to review the case of the state against John Brodman, of Upper Sandusky, who is under sentence to the penitentiary for shooting Judge Willis P. Rowland, also of Upper Sandusky. An appeal from the decision of the Wendell County Court of Appeals was filed by Brodman.

Brodman harbored a grievance against Rowland for many years and finally shot him and later declared he thought he obeyed the voice of God in his act. Rowland recovered.

The Supreme court also may have to determine whether a railway company is liable for damage to goods entrusted to it for shipment and damaged or lost, above the amount of value placed on the goods by the shipper. The Cuyahoga County Common Pleas and Appellate courts decided the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railway was responsible for the loss of $3029 worth of Indian blankets sent by Edward Dettelbach from Denver to his wife in Cleveland and stolen from the freight warehouse. Damages of the amount were awarded Dettelbach though he placed a value of only $10 on the goods before they were shipped.

The railway company claimed the award is in violation of the federal interstate commerce act, and seeks to restrict the amount of damages to the value assigned by the shipper when the goods were received for transportation.

PANAMA TOLLS REPEAL BILL
UP THURSDAY

Washington, March 25.—Final preparations for the actual opening of the fight for the repeal of the tolls exemption provision of the Panama Canal act, were taken today by leaders of the contending factions in the house. According to agreement, the issue will be formally presented at noon tomorrow, and under a special rule voted by the rules committee, for submission to the house today, debate would be limited to 15 hours. Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, aligned on both sides of the controversy, were agreed that the contest would be the most spirited of any staged in congress in recent years. Although the repeal advocates reiterated their predictions of success for the Sims repeal bill by a large majority, opponents of the measure scouted the idea of a one-sided fight, and even expressed doubt of its passage.

Today's business was confined principally to consideration of a number of bills of minor importance pending on the calendar of Wednesday's schedules. A large number of the members therefore, took advantage of the opportunity to complete their speeches and arrangements on the tolls question, and were absent from the chamber.

WOULD CONSTRUCT FIVE MILES OF GRAVEL PIKE

County commissioners Wednesday took under consideration a petition for gravel pike for a distance of five miles from the north corporation line of Newark around Waterworks hill. The petitioners want the pike constructed on the mile assessment plan. Half the distance is in Newark township and half in Newton township.

Despite the large number of signatures who have petitioned abandonment and removal of the Kaufman bridge, near St. Louisville, county commissioners heard a protest from two residents of the neighborhood, Wednesday, who seem to feel that the bridge is a necessary. Commissioners are inclined to doubt this, as the normal bed of the creek is some distance away.

The Courts

Juvenile Court.

Probate Judge Hunter was called upon Tuesday night to grant a hearing in a petition in habeas corpus filed at instigation of the father of Lena F. Retherford, a juvenile. The child's father sought to have her taken from the custody of her mother, who, he alleged had threatened to take her life and that of the child. He charged that when Mrs. Retherford produced a vial of acid which had been hidden in the bed he believed she meant to carry out her threat.

During the hearing in court Wednesday morning it developed that the mother had been permitting the child to have beer. This, the court construed to be sufficient cause for making the matter a case for juvenile court proceedings, and after further inquiry the child was allowed to remain in the mother's custody for the present and the father agreed to pay $12 per month for her support.

FLY CAUSES DREADED IN-FANTILE PARALYSIS.

INFANTILE paralysis is one of the most baffling diseases the medical profession has to deal with.

Although it is confined largely to children, it sometimes visits adults. Death often follows within a week after infection and sometimes in as little time as forty-eight hours. High fever, delirium and convulsions mark its presence.

The Rockefeller institute was founded in 1901 primarily to arrive at some preventive or curative agent to fight the plague. It has received since its establishment gifts from the oil magnate aggregating more than $3,000,000. The institute grew out of the death of Jack McCormick, one of Mr. Rockefeller's grandchildren, who died of this awful disease. The child's death awakened within its grandparent the determination to use his wealth to disclose the hidden and mysterious causes of the disease.

Fallibility of the Eyewitness.

When Professor F. C. Dokeray, in the psychological department of the University of Kansas, got into an altercation one day with the janitor, who entered the classroom and insisted on sweeping while Dokeray was lecturing a number of students rushed to his rescue. The affair grew into a free for all fight during which the janitor, who had drawn a revolver, was overpowered and disarmed. As a burly student grasped the pistol a shot was fired. As soon as order was somewhat restored the frightened and fleeing students remembered and accounts were taken from them of the affair. All the students swore they had heard the shot, and several told of seeing the smoke from the revolver. Then Professor Dokeray told them it was an experiment, a fight had been planned carefully, and the shot of the revolver was from the outside of the building by a student posted there. The purpose of the experiment was to show the unreliability of information even when furnished by an eyewitness.

Practice makes perfect, which is more than can sometimes be said of preaching.

Foraker denounces the policy of President Wilson in the matter of the Panama Canal tolls and Burton defends it most strenuously. Woodrow should worry!

Just to be sociable and to keep the issue before the people of Ohio the query is put to the Republican leaders: Which of the laws enacted as a part of the progressive Democratic platform do you propose to repeal if given power? Speak up!

As an earnest of the intention of the Democratic party to take the State out of the mud, the Board of Administration has leased a brick plant at Junction City in Perry County and will at once begin turning out road material. More anguish for the jawsmiths of the Bourbon opposition!

Frederick H. Goff, of Cleveland, a banker lawyer who denounces the Warnes law because it drove John D. Rockefeller out of Ohio, is being recommended as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. He certainly represents the predominant sentiment of the leaders of that party.

Statistics taken from unimpeachable records show that the Republicans and Progressives were recognized almost equally as representatives of the minority by Governor James M. Cox in his appointments to State positions. More than that; in the naming of deputy tax assessors under the civil service law a number of Socialists secured places.

Representative M. J. Jenkins, Republican, admits that he had a resolution prepared to attack the Democratic press bureau which he failed to offer to the General Assembly because he took sick. It was confessedly a part of the legislative program of mudslinging adopted by the Republican caucus presided over by

Wisdom from Washington

Washington, March 25. [Special.]—Unless oppressed by larger nations, nearly every people gets just about the kind of a government it wants. Of course, as long as a large power, backed by plenty of men and money, holds a number of people in subservency those people do not get the kind of government they want.

But, so far as all the nations on the American hemisphere are concerned, they certainly have just the kind of a government that suits them, for they are not forced by a stronger outside nation to accept any other kind. If those countries like revolutions they have them; if they like a dictator they have him; if they want to overthrow one man and take on another they do so.

Oligarchies Rule.

Of course it is a well known fact that in most of those countries the people do not really rule, but the government is in the hands of a few strong men. It must necessarily be so because the vast majority of those people are not capable of self government. Congressman Kahn of California, speaking of the men that make up the warring forces in Mexico, said: "The rank and file of those armies, if they had none of those bandit chiefs as leaders to urge them on in their devilry, would be willing to work for a living. But it is the bandit chief, who poses ostensibly as a Constitutional, who is responsible for their outrages."

Pensions a Good Thing.

"Alfalfa" Bill Murray of Oklahoma rather surprised his Democratic friends the other day by earnestly supporting pension legislation. He comes from a state that is pretty well south and right along on the Texas border and is largely populated with southern men. But Murray took a broad view of the pension question and declared that it was of great economic value as well as a reward for men who support the government in time of war. He said that the distribution of pensions had a tendency to prevent panics and that it also showed that the old saying that "republics are ungrateful" was not true of this country.

Work in West Virginia.

A man came down from West Virginia who did not want his state forgotten. He said, "While there are men doing some big things down in Panama, out in West Virginia we have excavated more cubic yards of coal in three years than the amount of cubic yards of earth that has been removed from the Panama canal."

Smithsonian Regents.

Congress got a little information the other day as to the importance of Smithsonian regents. It developed that these regents are really ornamental, for the institution is managed by a secretary, who tells the regents what to do whenever they have a meeting. These regents are of about as much importance as "side judges" when such were a part of the courts in several eastern states. It was never known that a real judge asked either one of the "side judges" who used to sit by him, any important question during the consideration of any case.

Caught Senator Thomas.

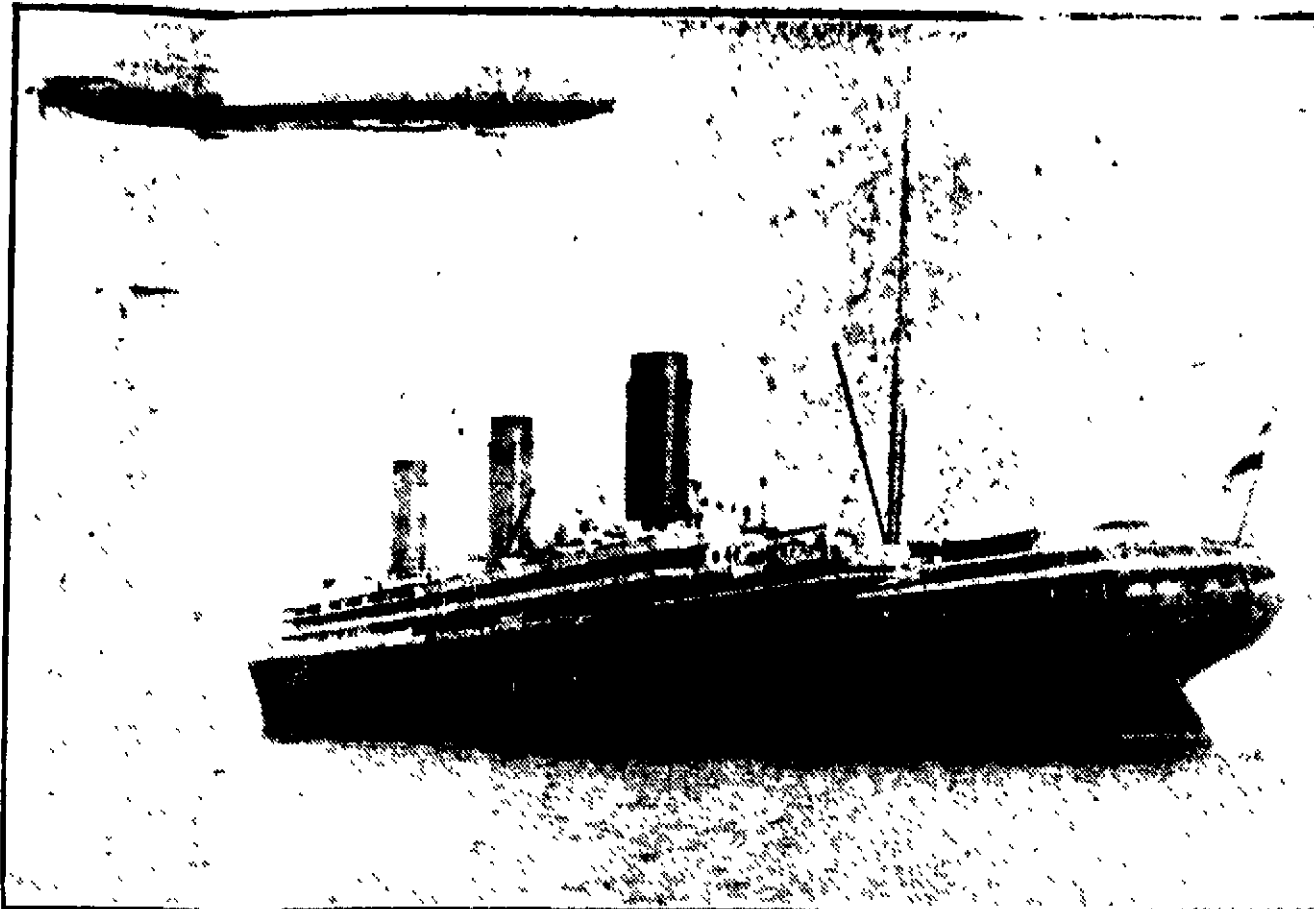

A watchful doorkeeper of the senate private gallery caught Senator Thomas breaking a rule the other day. Senator Thomas was with some ladies in the front seats of the gallery, and in pointing out a number of his fellow senators he leaned forward with his elbows on the railing in front. It was unusual, but the doorkeeper tripped down to where the senator was sitting and after some whispering convinced the Colorado senator that he was infringing on a recently revised rule.

A Hard Working Senator.

Senator Dillingham of Vermont is one of those conscientious hard working senators, and on account of his long service he has been placed on many important committees. The Vermont senator is on the judiciary, foreign relations, privileges and elections and immigration committees. His work keeps him very busy.

Many Absentees.

"Why do so many senators abs-

TWO OF THE SEVEN WONDERS OF THE MODERN WORLD.

A spirited voting contest has just been concluded in Germany to decide what constitutes the seven chief wonders of the twentieth century. After the enormous volume of votes cast were counted it was found that the majority had placed the wireless telegraphy at the head of the list, as might be expected, and the Panama canal second. It is gratifying to find that popular opinion on the continent should so generally recognize this American achievement. The third of the seven wonders, it was decided, is the dirigible airship, next in order the flying machine, radium, the cinematograph and the steamship Imperator.

An extraordinary photograph is reproduced herewith which shows two of the seven wonders of the modern world in close proximity. By a lucky chance the photographer has caught the dirigible airship Hansa and the Imperator, both of the Hamburg-American Line, on the same plate. The great airship, which measures more than 500 feet in length, was on one of her regular air cruises at the time she passed over the steamer. The luxurious cabin of the Hansa accommodates eighteen passengers, besides the wireless telegraph equipment and a kitchen and pantry. She frequently attains a speed of over sixty miles an hour, and flights of over 1,000 miles have been made without alighting.

It is surprising to find that the airship appears so large in comparison with the great steamer. The Imperator measures 919 feet in length, or nearly twice that of the Hansa. So rapid is the development of navigation that even the Imperator has been surpassed by her sister ship, the Vaterland, measuring 950 feet in length and surpassing the Imperator in every dimension. A third sister ship of similar dimensions is now building.

themselves? That query was asked by a person who has recently spent considerable time in the senate and noticed that most of the seats are vacant a great deal of the time, and that even when there is a roll call just a few more senators than a quorum usually answer. That is a question that has never been answered satisfactorily. It would seem that if a senator wanted to make himself a success he would be present and attend to business. Those senators who really become powerful are the men who are there nearly all the time and know what is going on. That is the reason some men become leaders.

May Weddings.

In ancient Rome there was held in May a festival called the Lemuria, or feast of the Lemures, which was a ceremony in honor of the spirits or departed souls. It became with the Romans what we should call "bad form" to have matrimonial feasts at the season of a solemn ritual, being no doubt thought to be an insult to the dead to marry at such a time. From this a number of stories grew of the revenge made by the outraged ghosts upon those who dared to disregard them, and if anything unfortunate happened to a couple who had been married in May it would, of course, have been put down to retribution. So the repugnance to May weddings arose, and its influence has lasted ever since, even to our time.—Exchange.

HOW TO KILL FLIES BY THOUSANDS.

A GOOD fly poison can be made by using one pint of milk, one pint of water, one tablespoonful of formaldehyde and one tablespoonful of sugar. Place in shallow vessel small square pieces of bread thoroughly saturated with this mixture. Be careful to keep it out of the reach of children and animals. Put a vessel or two of this mixture on the back porch to destroy the flies before they get into the house. No other food should be near; then the flies will take the poison, which will kill them quickly and by the thousands.

Uncle Walt

Statesmen.

They do not sow, they do not reap, they do not shear the gentle sheep, or milk the sad-eyed cow; they do not build, they do not fill, they do not mill, nor guide the mule-drawn plow. We've heard them tell us we are grand, the bone and sinew of the land, and we have cheered and grinned; but words were all we ever got from all that smiling statesmen lot, for all they sell is wind. We take our produce to the store, and haul it twenty mile or more, to get provisions; but statesmen get all things they need, the very finest goods, indeed, and all they pay is wind. We work till we are halt and blind, and if we get a month behind, threats in our ears are dinned; but statesmen do not work at all; they loaf in palace and in hall, and square the bill with wind. They drink the noblest wines of Spain, and eat the butter of the Dane, and fruits from tropic Ind; the luxuries of every land are evermore at their command, and all they pay is wind. What chumps we are, to toil and strain, and worry till we go insane, supporting such a group of parasites, who live at ease while we are expaining our knees to get the children soup!

Won in Losing.

She wanted to do some shopping and, as is the custom of wives, felt the need for more money. She went to her husband and asked for the loan of a sovereign. "But you'll never pay me back," protested the husband. "I've lent you money before." "I'll bet you 2 shillings I pay you in a month," said the wife. "Right," said the husband, leaping at this sporting offer. One morning the wife came sorrowfully to her husband. "Dear, I've lost that bet. Here's your 2 shillings."—Manchester Guardian.

INCREASE WEIGHT QUICKLY

Simple Way for the Thin and Pale to Be Plump and Rosy.

Samose can hardly be termed a medicine, it is in reality a flesh forming food. Taken before or after meals, it mingles with the food you eat, enables it to assimilate and readily digest, so as to make rich blood and pleasing plumpness.

After Samose has been used a week or ten days a noticeable gain in weight is seen. The sallow complexion will become rosy, the sunken cheeks will have a ruddy glow, the eyes will be bright, the breath sweet and the step elastic.

Use Samose for a month and all the flesh of the body will be firm and solid, and the outlines beautiful and symmetrical.

With the return of good health following the use of Samose, emaciation is overcome, and the thin and scrawny are once more plump and rosy.

W. A. Erman's customers have told him of the remarkable results following the use of Samose, the great flesh forming food, and he is so thoroughly convinced of its reliability that he is selling it under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it. You who are thin and in poor health cannot afford to let another day pass without getting a 50c box of Samose on those terms.

PRESENCE OF A FLY A DANGER SIGNAL.

THE fly has been tried and found guilty, in spite of the questionings of those who maintain the doctrine that every creature performs some useful purpose. Undoubtedly the fly does, for where there is an abundance of filth there will be flies multiply and increase. Their function today is nothing more or less than a danger signal to indicate insanitary conditions. Abolish these, and the breeding places of the flies will be eradicated.

One intelligent and energetic person can start a successful movement for the extermination of the house fly in any community if he or she is resourceful and patient as well.

Contest Editor's Query Column

The Advocate will be glad to answer all legitimate questions regarding the contest through the Contest Editor's query column. Questions may be sent by mail or telephone but the answers will be printed in this column so that no contestant will have any advantage over another.

A. R. D.—In picture No. 35, the woman is not holding a mirror in her hand. It is a sheet of paper.

Mrs. C. A. Fultonham.—In picture No. 15 the two men are partners and the women are also partners. This ought to answer your question.

C. A. F.—In picture No. 34 the man and woman are walking together. The woman's arm rests upon that of her escort.

Mrs. G. E. A., Reynoldsburg.—In case there are two or more books of the same title by different authors, name the book and take either author.

W. L. M., New Concord.—The Advocate has declined to print so called "puzzle experts" advertising because as a matter of fact these so-called "experts" know no more about the answers to the pictures than you do. We don't want the contestants to waste their money. This newspaper has however called attention to the fact that the Newark Electrical Co., U. O. Stevens and A. L. Rawlings and others have been posting "probable answers" in their show windows, but these men do not pose as experts and they are not asking anything for their solution of the pictures. The Newark Electrical Co. recently printed a circular giving probable answers and distributed about town for advertising purposes. Copies of this circular are sent to those who apply, but the electrical company plainly announces that its solutions are free to all who care to come to the company's office for them.

Madame Isbell's Beauty Lesson

LESSON VII. THE EFFECT OF COLOR ON THE SKIN AND HAIR.

This lesson might better be styled "The Effect of Color on the Soul," for the effect of color and the individual is far deeper than their mere reflection on the skin and hair. To some highly sensitive people colors have a marked psychological appeal. The color a woman wears is one generally becoming to her; it speaks to something beyond understanding, and the harmony thus created between color and soul is reflected in the face. Therefore, the first rule in becomingness is to choose the color that appeals the strongest to you.

Many of you may disagree with this on the ground that you have known people who wear red when it is conspicuously unbecoming, or others who choose to bloom when it is quite unsuited to cheeks and hair. Such people may have adopted these colors through habit and clung to them because they dislike changing, or at some period in their life they were told that a certain color suited them and they continued wearing it without further consideration.

What is Color?

Color, we are told by scientists, is the sensation on the retina of the eye made by rays of light of the intensity of the color depending on the degree of radiation. There are colors so faint and delicate that the eye cannot distinguish them, and in the eye always able to perceive just where one color merges into another. The best examples of true, beautiful colors are found in nature, especially in flowers where no two colors are placed in juxtaposition seem ever to clash. It is when these colors are translated into artificial dyes that skill is necessary in the combining of them, and care must be taken to choose those that harmonize or form a true contrast with the color of the skin and hair.

NOTE—Lesson VII is divided into four parts and should be read throughout to obtain full information on the subject. (Lesson VII to be continued.)

SPINSTERS LIVE MORE YEARS THAN MARRIED SISTERS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

New York, March 25.—The spinster lives longer than the married woman, and the woman who holds an endowment insurance policy lives longer than the woman who takes out a straight life policy. These facts, substantiated by statistics gathered last year by experts in the employment of forty-three insurance companies, were brought out last night by Arthur Hunter, an actuary, in an address at the monthly meeting of the Life Underwriters association of New York.

Mr. Hunter also said the business woman lives longer than the married man, but he did not attempt to explain why, except to declare that figures proved his statement to be a fact. Nor did he explain why the unmarried woman survived the matron.

LITTLE DISCUSSIONS OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE

BY BARBARA BOYD

The Punishment of the Unfaithful.

As she sat by the evening lamp sewing, the New Bride was looking very thoughtful. Every little while, from the pages of the magazine he was reading, the Newly-made Benedict glanced at her serious face, a question in his eyes. At last he said, "What is troubling you, little woman?"

"I was thinking of Mrs. Wharton," the New Bride replied. "I called there today and she seemed so unhappy and dejected,—though she tries not to show it,—and she's such a fine woman, that it's a shame."

"What's a shame?" asked the Newly-made Benedict, somewhat mystified. "She certainly is a fine woman, one of the best of this little burg. But what is she unhappy about?"

"Don't you know?" exclaimed the New Bride. "I thought everybody knew. It's her husband."

"What's the matter with him?"

"He doesn't care for her any longer. He—he neglects her. They say there is another woman."

"Humph!" said the Newly-made Benedict.

"And I was just wondering what ought to be done with a man like that. She has given up everything for him, all her own ambitions,—she was a very good artist, you know, before they were married. And she has brought up their four children beautifully. There aren't healthier, better-bred, nor more lovable children in the neighborhood. And she has done all her own work, though she loathes housework, because they are not well off, you know. And now, after all this, he neglects her. Tarring and feathering is too good for a man of that sort, I think."

"He is a cur," said the Newly-made Benedict, indignantly.

"But calling him names don't mend matters," observed the New Bride, sadly. "He'll go on just the same, and she's just as miserably unhappy."

"That reminds me," said the Newly-made Benedict, "of what I heard in the car tonight. Two women were discussing a case somewhat similar to this, only in this instance it was the wife who was unfaithful. 'Poor fool!' I heard one of the women say. 'He just treats her, and belittles everything she tells him. And she's gadding around with other men all the time!'"

"What lack is there in men and women that they do things like this?" mused the New Bride. "And what ought to be done with them?"

"For one thing, they lack the ability to see, think or feel deeply," replied the Newly-made Benedict. "When they were married, either they didn't look far enough into each other's character to see if the true companionship they wanted was there; or else, they did not comprehend what marriage really means. And so they live superficially. They never touch the depths of genuine feeling and real love. They chase fleeting, ephemeral emotions and pleasures."

"They miss the very best, then," said the New Bride.

"Of course they do. The passing pleasure or excitement of the society of one who really cares nothing for you, who is only using you to pass the time of day, is as moonlight unto sunlight and as water unto wine, compared with the true tender affection of one who loves devotedly. But they never think deep enough, nor feel deep enough, to know this."

"But what can you do with a person like this?"

"They ought to get the reward such superficiality and lack of moral sense deserves. They ought to be quietly ostracized by all right-thinking people. I don't mean in a self-righteous spirit. But naturally, there would be no congeniality between such light-minded people and those who think deeply upon the big things of life. And we ought to be clean-cut enough and big-minded enough to put this ostracism upon the one to whom it belongs, not upon the wife and children of the unfaithful husband; but upon the man himself. So often the woman, who has left her husband for justifiable reasons, is received with a question, a lift of the eyebrow, a shrug of the shoulder, a doubt as to whether we should admit her to our homes. When on the contrary, she should be received cordially and without a moment's hesitation. And the man should be left to fare forth among those he has chosen. Seems to me a little of this attitude on the part of the public would make irresponsible stop and think a little, before they fared forth so gayly from flowered flower, leaving all sense of duty and morality behind."

"I am afraid that wouldn't help Mrs. Wharton much."

"Yes it would. I don't believe she can really care for a person like Mr. Wharton; and if she thought the world would neither misjudge nor criticize her or her children, that they would not in any way be stigmatized or lose caste, I think she would be glad to be free from such unpleasant conditions, really from playing the part of a hypocrite. I think she would fare forth into her new life very gladly. Of course if she cares for him, then her joy is to stand by him and try to bring him the better vision. But that is an entirely different case."

DENISON TO HAVE A SUMMER SCHOOL AT GRANVILLE, O.
Granville, O., March 25.—Denison for the first time in the history of the college will hold a summer school this year if the plan is a success it will in all probability be continued. At a meeting of the executive committee of the college board of trustees last evening the above decision was made.

Never before has the college supported a summer school. Several denison summer schools have been held but they were all the result of individual cooperation by a number of the professors.

For the last two years a six weeks course has been given at Summerland Beach, on Buckeye lake. This under the supervision of the college authorities the summer school will be held in Granville.

It has been decided that Prof. C. E. Goodell shall fill the office of the dean. Prof. Goodell is the university registrar and holds a chair of political science at Denison.

Definite arrangements have not been made concerning the time for opening and closing of the summer course. However the opening will take place either the first or the second week in July very likely.

Dr. Clark W. Chamberlain addressed the ministers of Zanesville at Zanesville last evening. He also gave a brief speech on Denison last Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist church of Pittsburgh.

Frank J. Cannon will speak in the Presbyterian church Friday evening at seven o'clock.

The Denison Glee club left for Dresden this afternoon to give a concert this evening. They will return to Granville, Wednesday evening.

W. J. Livingston, coach of Denison athletic teams honored the basketball team with an elaborate banquet at his home last evening. Short talks were given by several of those present. A similar banquet was given last year after the finish of the season.

Before you try to make a man feel at home, be sure what kind of home he has.

Chicago Grain Situation.
(Associated Press Telegram)
Chicago, March 25.—Wheat eased off today in consequence of cables being indifferent and by more favorable weather northwest. Relief had come from districts threatened with drought and the market was buoyed up by moisture. Dwindling stocks at Minneapolis, however, acted to a considerable extent as an offset. Opening 10c higher from the same time last night to 1 1/4@1 1/2 lower and a slight further dip ensued, but then the market recovered.

In corn the majority of traders seemed disposed to press the selling side. Shipping demand here was light and the market was buoyed up by Argentine new corn having arrived at Galveston failed to make much impression. The market opened 1/4 to 1/2 higher and ended only in a half cent advance.

Oats sagged with other grain. Trade was of a scattering character.

Barley showed sympathy with weakness of cereals. First sales were unchanged to 2 1/2 lower and an additional decline followed.

IS WANTED AT DETROIT, MICH., FOR AUTO ROBBERIES

(Associated Press Telegram)
Dayton, O., March 25.—Edward Van Walden, Cincinnati man under arrest here, charged with shooting with intent to kill and brought here from Columbus, waived examination in municipal court this morning and was taken to jail in default of a $500 bond.

Detroit Police Detective Boratz is here and declares that VanWalden is positively the man wanted for automobile robberies in the Michigan City.

VanWalden denied he was in Detroit when the series of robberies was pulled off. No warrant for arrest in Detroit is being held here. The case has been postponed until April 2 to give Detroit police an opportunity to secure more evidence.

POLYGAMY IS MENACE TO NATION

SPEAKERS CHARGE POLITICAL,
MORAL AND FINANCIAL EVILS AGAINST CULT.

First Methodist Church Filled to Hear Ex-Senator F. J. Cannon's Masterly Address.

The First Methodist church was crowded Tuesday evening to hear two speakers who are recognized as the leaders in the fight now being made against Mormonism and especially polygamy as practiced in that church. The means advocated by these crusaders is an amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting its practice throughout the country.

The speakers last night were Frank J. Cannon, of Denver, former United States senator from Utah, and formerly a member of the Mormon faith, and James S. Martin of Pittsburgh, superintendent of the National Reform association, which is supporting the crusade.

The meeting was called to order by Hon. Edward Kibler, who acted as chairman of the meeting, and he asked the audience to join in singing "America," which was followed by an invocation by Rev. P. H. Fry, pastor of the West Main Street M. E. church.

Mr. Kibler then stated the object of the meeting and called upon Frank L. Johnson, secretary of the Newark Y. M. C. A., who read strong resolutions condemning Mormonism and polygamy and asked for their adoption by the meeting after they had heard the arguments to be submitted by the two principal speakers of the evening. The resolutions were then laid on the table until the conclusion of the talks and were then adopted as follows:

To the President of the United States:

WHEREAS, The report of the United States senate committee on privileges and elections shows that the Mormon church dominates the state of Utah and exercises an improper influence upon the civil affairs of surrounding states;

AND, WHEREAS, The same report shows that the Mormon church is seeking to supplant the government of the United States;

NOW, THEREFORE, We, as citi-

Sore Throat, Don'ts.

When the children have sore throat, don't blister their necks with lamp oil. Don't torture them with a foul smelling piece of fat meat, wrapped about the neck. Don't imagine there is medical virtue in an old sock or piece of red flannel. Don't believe in antiquated superstitions.

A sore throat is a serious matter and is not to be healed by such make-believe remedies. The use of such methods is simply putting the patient to needless torture. Use a little sore throat wisdom and give them TONSILINE and the throat will heal quickly. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

zens of the United States, do respectfully urge upon the president that he do not appoint to any federal position any man, Mormon or non-Mormon, who gives his political allegiance to the Mormon church.

To the Senate and House of Representatives, in Congress Assembled:

WHEREAS, The Mormon church continues to teach, and its prophet and priests continue to practice, polygamy, in defiance of law and in ungrateful violation of their pledge made to this country:

NOW, THEREFORE, We, citizens of the United States, in mass meeting assembled, do respectfully urge upon the congress the speedy adoption of the pending resolution—introduced in the house by Mr. Gillett of Massachusetts, and in the senate by Mr. Weeks of Massachusetts—to amend the federal constitution as follows:

"Article XVIII.
"Section 1. Polygamy and polygamous cohabitation, shall not exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction.
"Section 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Senator Cannon was the principal speaker and his address was a masterpiece of platform address. He has an appealing stage personality, which asserted itself from the opening words, and as he proceeded more and more dominated his hearers. The closest attention was given by the audience, as the speaker in the opening paragraphs qualified himself as "one having authority."

He told that he had been a Mormon, that his father had been and that he himself had believed in the honesty of the Mormon hierarchy. In their protestations and agreements to the United States government, he had himself acted as an emissary from the Mormon church to the federal government, when the church authorities had specifically promised never to teach or practice polygamy, never to usurp or aspire to political power through the medium of the church, never for its hierarchy to hold civil office and never to use its millions to teach polygamy. He had pledged his word as a gentleman to the government that these promises would be kept, he said, and then:

"They have kept not one of these promises. Joseph F. Smith, their prophet calls himself 'trustee in trust for Almighty God' and he handles and controls all the millions of the church without accounting for one cent of it to any living mortal. He has become a partner in nearly all the law-breaking trusts in the country—the Sugar trust, the Insurance trust, the Transportation and Salt trusts. He is a director or president of seventeen trusts. He has an income of $12,000,000 a year. The Mormon church spends annually $1,000,000 to suppress publicity."

He followed the analogy of Mormonism and slavery, which Lincoln had characterized as the "twin relics of barbarism." He said that the priests and apostles taught in their secret sessions that God sped the bullet of the assassin that martyred the president so that he could no more harass the church.

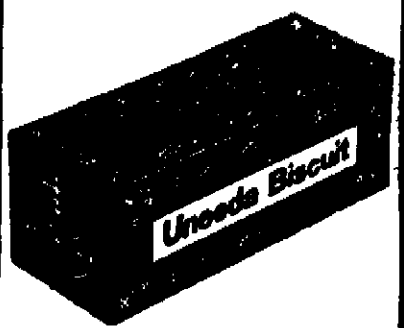

"The slave owner claimed slavery was a divine institution. The Mormon claims his revelations from God himself. The slave owner claimed constitutional immunity and shielded himself behind state's sovereignty; so do the Mormon apostles in regard to polygamy."
"Now not one-tenth of the members of the Mormon church practice polygamy but that small proportion possess the wealth and political influence of the church which is enormous, and like the slave owner of old they are enabled to use this in making bargains with legislatures and executives."
"When I was editor of the Salt Lake Tribune, we found and printed the names and addresses of 232 priests of the church who had taken polygamous wives since the promise to the United States that the practice would be discontinued. Not one of these ever was questioned, nor was the paper sued for libel. Only two years ago Joseph F. Smith, accompanied by his sixth wife, Alice Kimball Smith, came to Chicago to dedicate a church, and each was interviewed by the Chicago newspapers and each boasted of polygamous marriage and defended it. Superintendent Martin said that, without having a legal opinion, he thought that the Mann white slave law applied to Mormons who took their wives out of the state and he promised to see that the law was tested out in this connection if an occurrence similar to the Chicago trip of Joseph Smith was reported to him."
"This evil is growing," continued Senator Cannon. "Insidiously but nevertheless appreciably. Eleven states now have no direct prohibition of polygamous marriages, and the Mormon church needs the balance of power in only two more to defeat the proposed amendment to the federal constitution, which requires the ratification of three-fourths of the states. Reed Smoot is the appointed ambassador of Prophet Joseph F. Smith in the United States senate. Is this not a danger? Does it not require vigorous, drastic and immediate action?"

Pledge cards with pencils attached were distributed through the audience, and contributions payable monthly or quarterly were asked to assist in the work of the National Reform association.

The meeting last night was held under the auspices of the Federation of Women's clubs and their Young Men's Christian Union, of this city.

OPERATION WAS SUCCESSFUL AND CALEY RECOVERS

An operation by which a piece of his rib replaced a diseased part of the skull was pronounced successful Tuesday morning when Clarence Caley, 35, oil well driller, left the Grant Hospital at Columbus to return to his home in Hebron, O.

Caley's skull was fractured by a blow, several months ago, and when it knitted hardened tissue pressed against his brain, and was driving him insane. On February 24 he was taken to Grant Hospital and operated upon. He recovered rapidly from the unusual operation.

CRIMINALS OF THE METROPOLIS MUST LEAVE THE CITY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, March 25.—Douglas I. McKay, police commissioner, has served notice on the underworld that habitual criminals must either leave the city or expect the worst if caught in the police net in the future. Fourth offenders under the law can be sentenced to imprisonment for life on conviction of a felony. The commissioner has let it be known that he favors sending all such criminals to Sing Sing for life.

According to old timers at police headquarters, no equally effective plans for ridding New York of crooks was ever evolved. It was pointed out that criminals, especially those expected to spend some time behind the bars, but that there is not a crook living who does not fear life imprisonment.

RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

It's Me For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years, after calomel's old-time enemy discovered the formula for Olive Tablets, while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find relief, and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bed time.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O. All druggists.

DROPPED DEAD OVER GRAVE OF HIS NEIGHBOR

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Pulaski, Tenn., March 25.—As the body of D. C. Biles, an aged Confederate veteran was being lowered into its grave near Conway, Tenn., yesterday, Biles' friend and neighbor, B. F. Chambers, also a veteran, dropped dead near the coffin. The shock proved too much for another neighbor, Horace H. Reice, a third veteran, who was carried from the spot suffering from a paralytic stroke.

PENNSYLVANIA HAS REDUCED ITS STOCK DIVIDENDS

Philadelphia, March 25.—The directors of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company, the southwest system of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh today reduced the dividend on the common stock from five per cent to four per cent, and on the preferred stock from four per cent to three per cent. In connection with the announcement, President Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad made an official statement.

LABOR FOR PEACE.

The organized workers have invariably demanded and co-operated with every movement for international peace and anti-militaristic policies. The working people have ever borne the brunt of the burdens of war—the financial loss and service in the ranks. They well know its horrors and abhor that monster, militarism. The workers of our country owe to the best interests of the fatherland and themselves to exert every influence to defeat any movement toward militarism. Though the movement may seem harmless or even praiseworthy in some respects, it brings into being tendencies that are pernicious and dangerous. Organized labor protests, and will make its protest felt, against a military policy. Let the voice of labor insist that we remain a peaceful, law abiding country, relying upon civil institutions for protection and justice. Workers have special cause to oppose all attempts to foster militarism upon our free country or to encourage military tendencies.—Samuel Gompers.

COST OF COMPENSATION.

Consumers Pay Infinitesimal Sum to Aid Injured Workers.

The first annual report of the Massachusetts industrial accident board says in part:

During the first twelve months of the act there were reported to the industrial accident board 89,694 nonfatal accidents. Four hundred and seventy-four persons engaged in occupations in Massachusetts entitled to compensation for injury if insured were killed as a result of injuries arising out of and in the course of their employment, and seventy-one more fatalities were reported to the board, which were found on investigation not subject to the workings of the compensation act.

Of the 474 fatally injured persons to whom the act was applicable 200 were insured and 184 were not insured. In 112 of the cases no dependents were left, and in the remaining 362 cases there were 873 dependents, of whom 770 were wholly dependent and 103 were partially dependent upon the supporting member of the family. As a result of these fatalities in almost 60 per cent of the cases widows were left.

The actual loss to wage earners employed in Massachusetts industries as a result of the incapacity due to industrial injuries from July 1, 1912, to June 30, 1913, was $2,965,225, and of this amount $2,631,085 was a loss to wage earners who were insured, and $334,140 was a loss for which the injured employees or their dependents received no compensation from insurance. The loss of wages for each working day was about $10,000.

The actual cost of losses on the basis of insurance paid under the act to be charged against the finished product of Massachusetts manufacturers was nine-tenths of a mill for each dollar of product, exclusive of the administration cost of insurance. The consumer paid for every $10 worth of product purchased less than a cent as the per capita cost for the actual losses paid under the workmen's compensation act.

LYNCH LAW FOR LABOR.

Workers Have No Rights That Are Not Ruthlessly Violated.

When the South African authorities secretly exiled ten labor leaders they did more than rid themselves temporarily of a few troublesome agitators. They put a stigma upon free government. They proclaimed the inadequacy and inequality of law.

Public officers who resort to such arbitrary measures are either ignorant, cowardly or corrupt. They are ignorant of the powers of society if they think that they act under necessity. They are cowardly if they prefer tyranny in the dark to justice in the open. They are corrupt if through deference or persuasion they yield to the rich and influential because they are rich and influential.

In this instance, as in most of the similar cases reported in the United States, the authorities served only the employer. They did not proceed according to law, but in response to fear, favor and force. They wiped out constitutions and statutes and courts and rights by summary process. Just as, in the interest of mine owners, has been done recently by petty officers in West Virginia, northern Michigan and Colorado.

The perils of modern society are many, but is there one having greater possibilities of evil than that which in labor disputes subjects the bone and sinew of a country to outlawry, banishments, ostracisms? Mindful of the fact that most men work for a living, the World says no!—New York World.

Public Debate.

There will be a public debate in the convention room of the courthouse Thursday night on the question, "Has God Foreordained Whatsoever Comes to Pass?" The disputants are M. R. Scott and W. A. Hockinson. Scott representing the affirmative of the question and Hockinson the negative. Men and women all invited.

NEWARK'S NEWEST CHURCH IS MODEL OF CONVENIENCE; NOW NEARING COMPLETION

If Rev. P. H. Frye and his little flock of some 500 West Newark Methodists strut a little they are to be excused for their fond dream of years past is about to be realized. The congregation, of which Rev. Mr. Frye is pastor, will by this time, next month, be established in the new church in Neal avenue, just off of West Main street which has been under construction for a year.

This newest Newark church is an edifice of which its congregation and the city at large can well be proud. It is a structure which would grace any community and it compares favorably in architecture and convenience with any church in the city, excepting none.

It will be formally dedicated during the week of April 19 to 21 with a series of meetings which have been planned with a view of giving every department in the church an opportunity to have a part in the dedicatory services.

Many noted divines of the Methodist den in leaving the details of the construction entirely in Mr. Hawkins' hands.

The church fronts to the west and occupies a fine lot fronting on Neal avenue. It is constructed of a dark colored brick, much the same in appearance as that being used in the new Masonic temple. It is trimmed in McBurnett blue stone. The architecture is individual, yet not the least freakish or "load." There is a wide and imposing entrance, with a flight of stone steps from the sidewalk to the first landing. This landing is floored with red tile, with steps of the blue stone leading into the vestibule which opens into a corridor back of the main auditorium, leading to the Sunday school rooms. These rooms are separated from the auditorium by a heavy and non-flexible curtain which lifts between the walls and throws the class rooms and main auditorium into one monster audience room.

The arrangement is such that seating facilities may easily be provided for 1000 to 1200 persons. It is said to be the second largest seating capacity of Newark's protestant churches.

The main auditorium is beautiful in drives it under the furnaces, where it is heated and carried through a maze of heat conveyors to every corner of the building. In summer this same fan is used to force a continuous draught of fresh air to the far corners of the church. A system of register control makes it possible to control the flow of hot or cold air from the furnace room. Coal is used as fuel.

Another novel feature of the building is the utilization of waste space under the entrance as a cistern for the storage of soft water for use in the kitchen.

In the construction of the church special attention was given to the convenient and comfortable location of the pastor's study. This occupies a portion of the second floor in the rear of the pulpit. It is a delightful room, 11 by 15 feet in size, and Rev. Mr. Frye is justly proud of it. A friend of the pastor, residing in Columbus, installed a handsome fire place in the study as a personal gift to the pastor.

The organ, which Mrs. Mills will dedicate on April 16, is the very last word in organ construction. It is a product of the Fegemeyer Or-

ALVIN DEMOREST, a young artist, sent to the country for his health, falls in love with Enid Summer. Enid is a natural violinist. Her playing of "The Trauerer" has a particular effect upon the artist, and unconsciously the sound of it always recalls her image to his memory. Thus, when he is attacked by one of Enid's jealous country suitors the strains of "The Trauerer" restrain him from an act of violence.

Calvin is called back to the city by a letter informing him he has fallen heir to a fortune.
He leaves Enid at their old trysting place, but the music of "The Trauerer" calls him back for one more view of her, and he sees a picture of despair and grief that fixes itself indelibly in his heart.

The artist finds that his increased means enable him to take a trip to Europe. There he falls in love with Vera de Lys, an actress. Enid in the meanwhile goes to the city and becomes a pupil of Rizzio, Calvin's old music master.
Returning home from Europe Calvin secures a studio adjoining Rizzio's. He produces many pictures, but they are all rejected by art dealers.
Finally his funds are exhausted.

Enid has discovered the fact of Calvin's return, but avoids him. Finally she decides to give up her music lessons for fear of an accidental meeting. She requests Rizzio to give her "Trauerer" at her last lesson, and the day for this lesson arrives coincident with Calvin's day of greatest despair. The music of her violin reaches him, he sees again the picture of grief and despair that he saw the day he left the girl, and, snatching up his palette and brushes, he reproduces the picture on canvas.
At the art institute the picture wins high honors and serves the three-fold purpose of convincing Enid she is remembered, disclosing the secret of her love to Rizzio, and demonstrating to Vera de Lys, who has lost track of the artist, that Calvin is in the city.

Vera is the first to act on the suggestion offered by the picture. She finds Calvin at the Art Institute and revives in him his old infatuation for her. They leave the institute together, and Calvin sends back to Rizzio a note to meet them at a certain cabaret. The message gives Rizzio an idea, and he arranges with the manager of the cabaret to have Enid appear.

That evening at the cabaret "The Trauerer" goes forth from Enid's violin and stills the musician's soul. It reaches Calvin just as he is about to submit to the witcheries of Vera de Lys. He rushes into the room where Enid is playing, she eludes him. Then he appeals to Rizzio. The music master advises him to go back to the old trysting place, and there he meets the girl.

"An Affair of Dress."

This is one of the Edison company's "Dolly" of the Dailies series, the scenarios for which were written by Acton Davies, the dramatic critic of the New York Sun.

Dolly Desmond, having in a fit of anger thrown up her job as the writer of newspaper articles that appear under the signature of a New York society woman, gets a place as a manikin in a fashionable tailoring establishment. The proprietor of this place, a Mr.
Brownings, was a kind gentleman, but when his kindness took the form of trying to kiss Dolly the young woman gave him a slap in the face.

Meanwhile Dolly has not forgotten the fact that her purpose in coming to New York was to write. During her leisure hours at Brownings' she finds time to write a humorous poem, which she submits to a periodical called the Jester.
The poem is accepted, the editor calls in person to see Dolly, and leaves after inviting her to lunch.

Dolly has nothing to wear, so after asking the advice of the other manikins she dons one of Brownings' confections.

Brownings happens to be lunching at the same restaurant to which Dolly and the manikin go. He recognizes his gown.
He has taken a dislike to Dolly because she slapped his face, and now he sees his chance to get even.

When the restaurant is crowded he jumps to his feet and denounces Dolly as a thief. The girl is stricken dumb with terror, and her parents are greatly embarrassed. But an unexpected rescuer appears. He is the managing editor of a New York newspaper for which Dolly has done some work. He presents the police, who have arrived, with his card.

"This man," he says, indicating Brownings,
"is a blackmailer. This young woman is a reporter on my newspaper."

"Why," says Dolly, "the storming Brownings is led away, what a life!"

"Not at all," returns the managing editor.
"I have been looking for you for some time. I like your work, and your salary as a permanent employee of my newspaper began just ten minutes ago."

The partners of the Sunset Mining company, after examining a promising sample of ore sent in by a "Mr. M. E. Parker," go into the adjoining room to locate the place on the map.
While absent a real estate sharper, Baxter, comes into the office, observes the map, and takes the address. The stenographer has observed this suspicious behavior, which Baxter scribes to her employers. Anxious to secure the option, Morton dashes out to catch the first train, which he misses, but which Baxter has boarded. Morton gets a small racing car and arrives at Baxter's station just a few minutes after Baxter. Both are delayed, Baxter being obliged to hire a conveyance and Morton to secure gasoline and adjust parts of his engine.

While he is doing this a very charming girl comes by whom he helps to mount on her horse. The girl falls away, but is held up, robbed, and thrown to the ground by a Mexican. Baxter, fearing to be delayed, does not stop to rescue her when he passes her in the road, but Morton, coming a little later, pursues and captures the thief and then takes the girl on with him.

While driving on, Morton explains his errand, and that he has doubtless lost a fortune, since Baxter has a big lead on him now. At this the girl smiles. "But I am 'Mr. Parker's' daughter," she explains, and the two enjoy the prospects of Baxter's discomfort. The remainder of the way to the Parker ranch, Arriving there, they find Baxter very triumphant and domineering, but they soon turn the tables on him, and the option goes to the Sunset Mining company, to the mutual benefit of the company and the girl.

Here's a $5.00 meal ticket at Kuster's Servself Restaurant in the Arcade Annex. Doesn't this listen good to you? It's yours if you win Prize No. 105 in the Advocate's "Big Booklover's" contest and you have just as good a chance to win it as any one.

This splendid Servself restaurant is a very popular place, so much so that while it has only been in operation since last June it has already been found necessary to double its capacity. Work has begun in the new room, just north, which will be added to this and it is expected to be completed by the middle of April.

One hundred and twenty people can then be seated comfortably at one time. The kitchen will be enlarged and entirely separated from the dining room and the most sanitary methods procurable will be added.

The system of indirect lighting will be installed, also the latest system of ventilating.

The floors of the big double room will be white tile and also the wainscoting. The serving counters will be enlarged—in fact, throughout, everything will be on a larger scale and improved in every way—the added space giving room for many additional features in the ordinary line.

An entrance will be made from the lobby of the Arcade Hotel so that the patrons of this splendid new hotel can have easy access to the Servself dining room. The main entrance will be the same as at present.

When the new improvements are completed Kuster's Servself restaurant will be one of the most modern places in Central Ohio.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-tenths of All Stomach Trouble Said to Be Due to Acidity.

A Physician's Advice on Cause and Cure.

A famous physician whose successful researches into the cause and cure of stomach and intestinal diseases have earned for him an international reputation, said in the course of a recent lecture that nearly all intestinal troubles, as well as many diseases of the vital organs, are due to acidity of the stomach which in turn was due to nine times out of ten to excessive acidity, commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn, which not only irritated and inflamed the delicate lining of the stomach, but also set up gastritis and stomach ulcers. It is interesting to note that he condemns the use of patent medicines as well as of medical treatment for the stomach, stating that he and his colleagues have secured remarkable results by the use of ordinary disordered magnesia, which, by neutralizing the acidity of the food, removes the source of the trouble. He contends that it is as foolish to treat the stomach itself as it would be for a man who stepped on a tack to rub liniment on the foot without first removing the tack. Remove the tack and the foot will heal itself—neutralize the acid and stomach troubles will disappear. Irritating medicines and medical treatments are useless, so long as the contents of the stomach remain acid; remove the acidity, and there will be no need for medicine. Magnesia from Erman's drug store will then heal itself. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or heartburn should get a small bottle of disordered magnesia from Erman's drug store and take a teaspoonful in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after meals, repeating in fifteen minutes, if necessary, this being the dose which the doctor has found most efficacious in all cases.

"A watched pot never boils," quoted the Wise Guy. "Perhaps not," said the Simple Mug. "But if it happens to be a jackpot it is just as well to keep your eye on it."

Wonder what upset your stomach which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. Postmaster General Burleson has issued a new order regarding the sending of seeds, cuttings, bulbs and such through the mails. The special rate of postage heretofore chargeable on seeds, plants, etc., has been repealed by the act of March 9, 1914, and under its provisions the regular fourth-class or parcel post rates of postage are now applicable to all parcels of such articles, as is set forth in the following order of the Postmaster General, made in pursuance of the act mentioned:

"Section 457, Postal Laws and Regulations, edition of 1913, is amended to read as follows:

1st—Seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, and plants shall hereafter be embraced in and carried as fourth-class matter and for the same rates of postage.

2d.—The rate of postage on parcels of seeds cuttings, bulbs, roots scions and plants weighing four ounces or less is one cent for each ounce or fraction thereof, regardless of distance; on parcels weighing more than four ounces the pound rates, shown in paragraph 1, section 456. These rates apply whether the articles are for planting or other purposes.

Justice Must Wait on Death.

Mrs. P. T. Anderson, Los Angeles probation officer, was sent to Chicago with a requisition from the governor of California for Miss Helene Young, wanted in the coast city for forgery. She found the young woman at the bedside of her dying sister, Mrs. Laura Hall, at 4139 Indiana avenue.

Mrs. Hall was afflicted with cancer, and it was only a matter of days, the physicians said, before she would die. The sister was the only nurse, Mrs. Hall did not want the sister to leave her, nor did Helene want to go. She got a lawyer to appeal to the courts for a writ of habeas corpus, and three judges decided that the young woman could stay with her dying sister to the end. There was nothing more for Mrs. Anderson to do but wait. She wired for instructions to her superiors in California. When Mrs. Hall is buried the sister must go on to Los Angeles to be tried for forgery with a prison term among the possibilities of her future.

Theaters

Primrose and Dockstader. Lew Dockstader, the veteran minstrel man, has been so long associated in the minds of theatergoers with burnt cork entertainment that it may be difficult for them to realize that he was at one time a ranchman, yet, such is really the case. He is back in minstrelsy because he couldn't stand the loneliness of "the back to nature" life.

Before he was twenty-one years old, Mr. Dockstader was the owner of a theater in his native city, Hartford, Conn., having first served an apprenticeship with the Whitmore and Clark minstrels and prior to that with the "Young Scamp," a piece from which he went out from the amateur stage with Harry Bloodgood, who discovered him acting in a church entertainment.

Mr. Dockstader conducted his Hartford theater with much success, notwithstanding his youth. He sold out after a year or two to go to California with a brother who was in ill health and the greater portion of the theater profits went toward the purchase of a ranch, in what is now the heart of Los Angeles, California. Last year Mr. Dockstader and Mr. Primrose got together. They talked by gone days over.

There will be a special band concert in front of the Auditorium theater tonight at 7:30.

Montgomery and Stone. David Montgomery and Fred Stone are dog and horse fanciers, as well as comedians. Both the partners, now starring in "The Lady of the Slipper," maintain suburban residences near New York, where they keep their prize live stock.

Mr. Stone has one place at Hicksville, Long Island and another at Amityville, while Mr. Montgomery has a tidy little bungalow with garage, stables, and kennels, at Whitestone. Two new additions to the dog families of the two comedians gladdened their hearts while "The Lady of the Slipper" was playing in Cincinnati, a fortnight ago. One was the Prince of York and the other the Prince's Royal Sister, Vickery Soubrette. The dogs were presented to Montgomery and Stone by Mrs. A. V. Crawford and Mr. Chas. M. Farris, who is her partner in the Vickery Kennels at Barington, Ill. The dogs are classically bred Ayerdales about ten months old.

Mr. Stone drew the Prince and Mr. Montgomery the Princess, spritely sister. The parents of the pups have won a collection of blue ribbons at the principal bench shows in the United States and Canada. The dogs will accompany their new masters when they come to the Auditorium Theater next week.

Champlin Stock Company. The management of the Auditorium takes pleasure in announcing the coming of the famous Champlin Stock company. This is without a doubt one of the most gorgeously mounted organizations on tour, and like Nacy Boyer, Winifred St. Claire and Kirk Brown, is producing new plays with complete productions. It will not be here until after Easter but in its coming we surely have something to look forward to.

TREAT CHILDREN'S COLDS EXTERNALLY. Don't dose the delicate little stomach with harmful internal medicines. Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve is applied externally over the throat and chest. The body heat increases soothing antiseptic vapors that are inhaled all night long, loosening the tough phlegm and opening up the air passages. For all inflammations of the air passages from head colds and catarrh, down to bronchitis and incipient pneumonia Vick's is quicker than internal medicines. Can be used freely with perfect safety, on the smallest child. At drugists—25c, 50c and $1.00.

"Postum for Mine"

Many a man and woman with coffee troubles has found that Postum is a sure and pleasant way back to health.

A doctor writes:

"I have been using Postum for the last seven or eight years, and think it has had a good deal to do with my looking younger than 55 years of age."

"I recommend it to all my patients, and those who have been using it have only praises for its taste and its good effects on their nervous systems; like me they have given up tea and coffee altogether."

Postum is a pure food-drink made of wheat and a small proportion of molasses—roasted and skillfully blended. It is absolutely free from the coffee drugs, caffeine and tannin—common causes of heart, stomach, liver, kidney and nerve disturbance.

Some people marvel at the benefits from leaving off coffee and using Postum, but there is nothing marvelous about it—only common sense.

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled. 15c and 25c pkgs.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder, requires no boiling. A spoonful stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

STRADLEY HAS CONFESSED TO INCENDIARISM

As a result of persistent investigation by Deputy State Fire Marshal John Baird, Harvey Stradley, 60, of the village of Hickman, better known as Rocky Fork, is in the county jail on a charge of incendiarism. Authorities say a grilling examination wrung from Stradley a confession that he set fire to the J. B. Rector general store in the village, which was destroyed a week ago.

Stradley was brought to Newark Tuesday night at 7 o'clock by Deputy Baird and Glenn Thrush, also a deputy in the state fire marshal's department, and arraigned before Mayor Bigbee. He entered a plea of guilty and was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $1,000. Unable to give bond, he was lodged in the county jail.

The confession of Stradley is the first of its kind that has been obtained in this county in a number of years, and was due to the persistent efforts of Deputy Fire Marshal Baird, assisted by Deputy Thrush.

The Rector store was discovered ablaze at 12:30 last Wednesday morning by Mrs. William Stricker, who lives across the street from the building. She was awakened by the crackling of flames, and within a half hour from the time of her discovery, the building was in ruins.

Rector's entire stock of general merchandise, valued at $1,200 and insured for $500, was destroyed. The building was valued at $600, and was insured for the full amount in a company represented by the Norris & Windle agency here. It was owned by Mrs. Stradley wife of the man who is now charged with having destroyed it.

The morning after the fire, Deputy Baird visited the village and began his investigation. At that time Stradley professed absolute ignorance of the origin of the fire. Investigations continued and on Tuesday the two deputies from the state fire marshal's office examined several witnesses, including Stradley. The man insisted he knew nothing about the affair until finally circumstantial evidence was piled about him so closely by the officers that he suddenly broke down and admitted he had started the conflagration.

According to the officers, Stradley declared he thought he had $900 insurance on the building and that he wanted the money with which to put up a new building. Mrs. Stradley was exonerated of all knowledge of her husband's intentions.

The main structure of frame, was built twelve years ago and was valued at $100. Later a $200 addition was built on it. It was first insured for $500. Later, Stradley applied for $900 more insurance, and told officers he was under the impression the increase was allowed but it was not.

The building was frame throughout and two stories high.

It is said Stradley told officers he applied a burning cigar to a place at the rear of the building where kerosene had run from its tank in the store and saturated the wood, and that before he reached his home the flames were shooting high in the air.

Mrs. Stradley is partially invalid, due to paralysis.

The confession of Stradley is one of scores which have been brought about through the department of State Fire Marshal E. T. Deffenbaugh of Columbus. Mr. Deffenbaugh has been active ever since his induction into office and surrounded by a corps of efficient, painstaking deputies has been a terror to fire bugs. There has been less incendiarism under Mr. Deffenbaugh's regime and his appointment by Governor Cox has redounded to the credit of the state administration.

The Hon. John I. Zimmermann of Springfield, will address the men of Newark, under auspices of St. Paul's Lutheran Brotherhood at the High School Auditorium Sunday, March 29, at 3 p. m. Subject: "The Man in the Church."

WILL PROSECUTE CHICKEN OWNERS FOR VIOLATION

The offices of Mayor Bigbee and Police Chief Sheridan have been swamped for several days past with complaints from Newark residents regarding the practice of some poultry owners who permit their chickens to run at large. The complaints have been so frequent that the police department has found it almost impossible to keep up with the visits necessary to warn the offenders. Mayor Bigbee announced Tuesday that in the future, the visits of officers would be stopped except that they would be instructed to bring the chicken owners into court. A city ordinance prohibits chicken owners from allowing the birds to run at large. The approach of spring always brings these complaints as gardens, lawns and flower beds are bound to suffer. Prosecutions will be made by the police department without further warning.

FOUR MILLION dead flies were bought at the rate of 5 cents a pint by the Harrisburg Civic club of Harrisburg, Pa., at the close of the swatting prize contest last season. A TONIC FOR DYSPEPTICS

When food lies undigested in the stomach it ferments and gas forms. The gas distends the stomach and presses on the heart, causing a pain that sometimes arouses fear of heart trouble. The condition in which gas forms is caused by a low tone of the digestive organs and a lack of rich red blood resulting in deficient nerve force. It is a condition that calls for a tonic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic for the blood and nerves, have been used with great success in the treatment of the form of stomach trouble. Cold baths in the morning followed by brisk friction with a rough towel will help as they stimulate the circulation but a tonic is needed to build up the blood, restore the nerve force and make the stomach able to do its work, giving the most lasting benefit. With their use the appetite increases, digestion becomes normal and improvement in the general health follows with certainty.

You are trying no experiment when you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cannot harm the most delicate system. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the nearest drug store. A copy of the book "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 3 Lancaster, N. Y.
